BIOGRAPHY

Alvin is a social entrepreneur and consultant in social innovation. He first began his giving journey in medical school, but later decided to serve the community at a larger scale through global business and social movements. Alvin is Co-Founder and CEO at The Kommon Goods, an eco-friendly lifestyle brand producing metal straws, bamboo toothbrushes and other non-plastic products. He is also Co-Founder of Givo, an award-winning charitable fundraising platform, and Founder at Superkids, an award-winning digital children's storybooks app that promotes positive values and empathy.

Alvin founded a Ghana microfinance project after completing the Executive Programme for Impact Investing at the University of Oxford, and was the Director of Finance at a UK-based charity and Analyst at UBS Bank. He is currently President of a Social Impact Leaders group at a global investment bank, running workshops and site visits for young philanthropists, impact investors and social entrepreneurs across APAC.

He has been named Global Shaper by the World Economic Forum, and has been invited as a thought leader to be a keynote speaker and panellist at numerous events, and to share his views on social innovation publicly on live TV, radio shows and news articles. He holds a Master's in Management as well as a Master's in Social Innovation, both at the University of Cambridge.
